THE NEWSLETTER OF FLACKWELL HEATH COMMUNITY ASSOCIATION

FLACKWELL CLUB CLOSES

It has been known as the Royal British Legion (RBL) Club for many years, but now the windows are boarded and the car park blocked off. A lack of information on the closure has inevitably led to intense speculation in the village. A letter from the British Legion to the club was posted on its Facebook page on September 29. In short, this letter severed all ties with the club with immediate effect. This meant that the club should be de-registered as a RBL club with the Financial Conduct Authority and also with the licensing authorities. The closure has come as something of a surprise as, in the last few months, several improvements have been made to the building which we understand is owned by the British Legion. It's too early to say what will happen to the premises, which are adjacent to the former Barclays Bank.

It is worth noting that the social club is independent of the Flackwell Heath branch of the British Legion charity. That is currently administered by the county, and the County Secretary has issued this statement: "The recent closure of the Royal British Legion Club in Flackwell Heath will not affect the workings of the local branch or welfare work, poppy appeal and remembrance activities delivered in the area. If anyone is in need of support I would encourage them to contact us on 0808 802 8080, which is a Freephone number. The branch are always looking for new members and volunteers to help our beneficiaries in the area. If you feel that you can offer this please join at www.britishlegion.org.uk."

At this point, we also have further information from the county with respect to the Remembrance activities as follows:

Poppy Appeal

Poppy boxes will be sent to retailers directly or safely distributed in line with strict COVID-19 protocols. If you wish to order a wreath (donation required according to size), please email Buckinghamshire.ViceChairman@rbl.com and wreath laying at the war memorial will be jointly carried out as normal between Christ Church, Flackwell Heath and The Royal British Legion in line with all local authority guidelines. This will be a virtual service posted on the village website for individuals to watch.

New Head at Carrington Infant School

On the 3rd of September, the children of Carrington Infant School returned to school and met their new headteacher, Mrs Kate Cliffe, for the first time.

I wonder if the children realised that Kate has moved over four thousand miles, from Qatar, where she was previously headmistress of the British School in Doha, which has over 900 pupils.

I asked Kate how she felt about the move and her motivation for coming back to the UK. Naturally children are central to Kate's life and it was her belief that her own children, aged 9 and 12, needed to be brought up in England where they would identify with their own culture and make lasting friendships. Kate's husband is also a teacher and the family, who are renting at the moment, hope to eventually buy a home in Oxford.

For Kate, there are many challenges to be faced in leading a school in the midst of a pandemic, but she is very composed and cheerful and doesn't propose to make any major changes to the school just yet. "Look at what's in place first," she explained.

Every morning Kate is out in the playground to welcome the children as they arrive, but she also wants their parents to have a strong voice and real involvement in the running of the school. Children enter Carrington Infant School when they are four years old. Sadly the COVID-19 pandemic means that it is not possible for their parents to visit the school but the school website www.carrington-inf.bucks.sch.uk/ provides a wonderful virtual viewing.

Watch the video on the school website and imagine going through the front door, hand in hand with your four year old. Follow the camera as it takes you into the brightly decorated, welcoming Ruby and Opal classrooms for reception pupils. See the little tables where the children sit and eat their lunch together and then peep into the spacious hall where PE lessons and assemblies are held.

Continue through the school to play outside in the early years outdoor classroom then walk down through the trees to the forest school and cook in the mud kitchen! It's a truly magical tour and you will wish you were back at school yourself!

Kate is assisted by her Deputy Head, Rachael Cooper and Anna Barron, who is Head of Early Years. If your child is coming up to school age, you can join a Microsoft Teams Q&A session in November to put any questions you may have directly to the senior leadership team.

I am sure that the village of Flackwell Heath are very glad indeed to welcome Kate into the community and that Kate's optimism and enthusiasm will carry the school through this difficult time and on to better times ahead!

Dear Sue

So start quite a number of the communications popping up in the Grapevine inbox.

Although Sue Arnautov still helps us out from time to time when we get confused, she has now handed over the reins to us, the Grapevine editing team.

COVID-19 isn't making our life easy, but we are doing our best to fill your magazine with interesting content at a time when very little is taking place in the village.

Who are we? Well, Alison Peach has threatened to write an article about us which we will print when we have nothing more important to talk about!

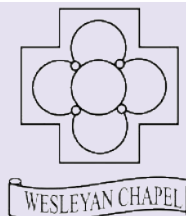

Sale of Poppies

Hopefully you saw the fantastic waterfall poppy displays on the green opposite Sainsbury's for the VE and VJ celebrations this year. These were the work of a number of local ladies in the village. Freda Huxtable, the truly inspirational Irene Walker (who made 100 herself!) and I were among them. It was a privilege to meet so many of you out there who knitted these with love and care during the lockdown.

We now have a new idea for Armistice Day. Its called the 11/11 challenge - you make 11 poppies to sell onto 11 people - and so we have been busy individually bagging these unique poppies to do just that and raise funds for the appeal. We now have 500 (with pins) which we will be selling by the silent soldiers on the green between 10am and 12noon on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 5, 6 and 7 November. Do come and buy!

FLACKWELL HEATH METHODIST CHURCH

At present we are unable to provide physical worship services on Sunday, but we hope to be opening soon for personal prayer and for socially-distanced Girls' Brigade meetings. We are running our PARENT AND TODDLER (PAT) GROUP and PLAY & PRAISE virtually during November on Wednesday and Friday mornings, respectively. For the foreseeable future our toddler sessions remain virtual, and for security reasons the log in details are new each time; these are posted on the Flackwell Heath Wednesday PAT Group Facebook page, which can be found here:

Although our Sunday services have had to move online, the building is open for private prayer on Thursdays and Fridays from 10-11.30am.

Please contact the Church Office for further information.

Memorial Service

Each year Christ Church holds a Memorial Service on the 3rd Sunday evening in November, so that anyone who has been bereaved at any time can come to remember their loved ones who have died and light a candle in their memory. Sadly this year, when so many more people have been bereaved, we are not able to hold the service in its usual format. However, we invite you to put your loved one's names in our book of remembrance by emailing or phoning the Church Office. All the names will be read out by the Church leadership team in a small, private service attended by representatives of Oasis (our self-help bereavement group) and Bereavement Visiting Team, and we will pray for you and all who are bereaved. We will also light a candle on your behalf and invite you to light a candle in your own home at 6.30pm on Sunday 15th November to remember those we love but see no longer.

National Grief Awareness Week

Oasis has partnered with The Good Grief Trust www.thegoodgrieftrust.org – a charity that links together all bereavement support groups in the UK – and will be supporting the National Grief Awareness Week from 2nd to 8th December. Look out for yellow hearts around the village that week and do check the website (and next month's Grapevine) for more information. At 8pm on 8th December St Paul's Cathedral will be lit in yellow and we hope that some of our village landmarks will be too.

If you would like to speak with someone on the phone about your loss, please contact the Church Office and one of our Bereavement Visiting Team will be pleased to talk with you, in confidence of course.

Flackwell Local Area History Group

Following the latest Government advice on social distancing, due to the coronavirus, we are postponing all talks at the Flackwell Heath Community Library. They will be rescheduled at a later date.

Did you know that the local Boy Scouts guarded the old village water tower, beside the shop at Northern Woods in Flackwell Heath, during WWI to make sure the Germans didn't attempt to poison the village water supply?

We've had a request to find Skövehuse which was situated in Flackwell Heath, or possibly Loudwater, in 1912. The house appears in the 1915 Kelly's Directory with the name Miss Brooke-Alder. Does anyone live in a house that was once called Skövehuse? The name may be derived from the Danish word for wood or forest, or from the technique of covering a kiln with clay.

Strictly for Beginners

In April 2017, the Grapevine reported on the achievements of a talented 14 year-old dancer called Tim Woodford. Where is he now?

Listen carefully in the vicinity of the Community Centre on a Wednesday evening and you just might hear the muffled tones of a waltz, foxtrot, samba or jive from within, where some brave new dancers are taking to the floor to enjoy an introduction to the world of Ballroom and Latin Dancing, each at a suitably safe social distance.

They are in the capable hands of Tim Woodford, who lives in the village at Treadaway Hill, and is an A-level student at Sir William Borlase's Grammar School in Marlow. Tim first took to the ballroom floor at the tender age of five, developing a twelve year dance career that has encompassed performance and competitions from Bournemouth to Blackpool, and most places in between, reaching a placing within the top six in the UK. In international championships he has taken on competitors from as far afield as China and the USA.

But, after teaching at dance schools in Reading for a couple of years, Tim is now bringing the magic of the ballroom home to Flackwell Heath. "It is superb to see the enthusiasm and positive energy in the classes" says Tim, "and wonderful to have the chance to offer something to the community, particularly in this trying time of the pandemic."

Speaking of which, how can partner dancing be taught at a time of social distancing? "Well, we have two classes" explains Tim, "one in which dance partners sharing a social bubble dance together at a safe distance from others, and a second in which students dance solo; although Ballroom and Latin is a partner dance form, there are plenty of steps and techniques that are great fun to learn as an individual."

Enquiries are always welcome at timwoodford.dance@gmail.com, with tutorial videos and further details available on Facebook at www.facebook.com/groups/strictly4beginners.

FLACKWELL HEATH MINORS AND SIMPLY WASTE

Ahead of the new football season, Flackwell Heath Minors have been given a welcome boost with the extension of its kit sponsorship with Flackwell based business, Simply Waste Solutions. The ongoing partnership will see Simply Waste Solutions continue to sponsor the kits of all Flackwell Heath Minors' teams from under six to under 17 age groups for the coming season. As a thank you for the business' ongoing support, this week Flackwell Heath Minors presented Simply Waste with a framed shirt, complete with a thank you plaque which will be proudly displayed in their head office.

With grassroots and youth football hit particularly hard by the COVID-19 pandemic, it allows Flackwell Heath Minors to continue to run teams across the broad range of youth football age groups and engage young children in Buckinghamshire with physical activity.

"We're delighted to be continuing our ongoing partnership with Simply Waste Solutions," said Declan Breen, Chairman of Flackwell Heath Minors FC. "Our players have been itching to get back on the football pitch since youth football was suspended and we're incredibly thankful for their support of our football club. It's been a challenging time for everyone and we can't wait to get the new season underway and enjoy youth football again."

The CEO of Simply Waste, Hames Capel said "We've had a great partnership with Flackwell Heath Minors over the past three years and we're looking forward to continuing this. In these unprecedented times, the resumption of youth football is a welcome step towards normality and we're grateful to be playing a small part in helping Flackwell Heath Minors provide playing opportunities for young people in both the village and surrounding areas."

Editorial note: After receiving this article we learnt that Simply Waste has now been sold to Biffa.

Morning WI

We had planned a meeting for October but this had to be cancelled sadly due to further restrictions so we are in limbo again.

The election of a new President is being done by postal votes, with a reduced committee. However we have optimistically booked speakers for 2021!

One of our members, Molly Todd, celebrated her 100th birthday in August, and some committee members delivered an orchid, chocolates and a balloon to her, but we look forward to us all having a belated celebration with Molly eventually.

Meanwhile, good wishes to all.

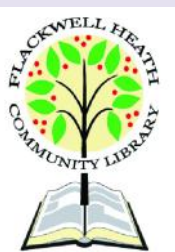

Brenda Aldridge

Evening WI

We had to hold our Annual Meeting - whatever the circumstances, it's apparently a legal requirement. The President had circulated all the papers (Annual Report, Financial statement, President's address nomination papers etc.) beforehand. The actual meeting had four members, distanced, in a conservatory, with others connecting by Zoom. A WI Advisor supervised the ballot for President, and Barbara Dickinson was re-elected. Shortest Annual Meeting we've ever had!

As for the November meeting, we'll just have to see....

FLACKWELL HEATH COMMUNITY LIBRARY

Focus on: Robert Harris

From an early career as a journalist, Robert Harris is now a very successful author of historical thrillers. His novels are very varied, being based on some historical period or particular (real or imaginary) event, but they are very readable, and you just can't put them down once you have started.

One of his most famous novels is 'An Officer and a Spy', based on the true story of French officer Georges Picquart from 1896-1906, as he struggles to expose the truth about the doctored evidence that exiled Captain Alfred Dreyfus to Devil's Island for spying. It has since been turned into a film.

His first novel, 'Fatherland' sold 3 million copies and is set in a world where Germany had won WWII. 'Enigma' is set in Bletchley during the war, and 'Munich' is set around the negotiations for the Munich Agreement of 1938 between Chamberlain and Hitler. There are three novels on the great Roman orator Cicero, but any interesting event could be the source of a novel.

Totally different are 'Conclave' set over 72 hours in the Vatican preceding the election of a new Pope, and 'The Fear Index' inspired by the 2010 Flash Crash in US stock markets, featuring an AI based stock trading system. 'Ghost', is centred on a ghost writer for the autobiography of a recently ousted British prime minister whose previous ghost writer died in mysterious circumstances.

His 14th novel, 'V2' was published in September. Copies of this are on order in Bucks libraries but there are already a large number of reservations for this – possibly as a result of the radio advertising that accompanied the launch. He has also written five non-fiction books.

We now have a QR code for the library, so if you have a smart phone and the NHS test & trace app then all you have to do is scan the code and we don't have to take any contact details from you.

The artistic lockdown journey of Sensimania

Many of us were not looking forward to lockdown, but none more so than Sensi Keates who had, only weeks before, split from her partner of 11 years. Left on her own with 3 boys aged 8, 6 and (now) 2, she wasn't sure she could cope. But as there was no choice she battened down the hatches and got on with the home schooling, cooking, clearing up, feeding and trying to keep her family amused; because, as she says, "as a Mum, that's what you do". Only in the evenings, when the boys were in bed, did the crazy thoughts and heartbreak creep back. She needed help.

Sensi went to art college when she was younger, did a decorative art degree and ended up doing some work in print design, but she never viewed it as a career. She had run a pub for more years than she had spent in any "artistic" role before moving to Flackwell 10 years ago. Only now was it that she turned to drawing and painting to manage the despair she was living with. The first "Rainbow" picture developed over three nights and was a collage made of things cut from magazines and tiny beads that took forever to place. The concentration however, was ultimately calming. She subsequently purchased paint, pencils and paper and, to her surprise, was able to produce some extraordinary work. The initial pieces were quite dark - clearly an extension of her thoughts at that time - and, when she showed them to her sons, one of them seemed unimpressed and suggested she ought to "do animals" instead.

She took him at his word and produced a lion the next evening. His reaction was so enthusiastic that she felt encouraged to go on to produce rhinos, elephants, giraffes, and even a multi-coloured zebra on following evenings. It had become her therapy, giving her something to look forward to doing the next day, and slowly life became a little less daunting. She says she would normally scoff at someone telling her that art would help her recover, but she now believes it has helped immeasurably. Her pictures, too, gradually began to reflect her mood which was becoming brightly coloured and joyous.

Posting her efforts on her family Facebook page brought even more praise, amazement and, above all, incredible support from her family and many friends - some of whom she hadn't connected with for years. She says she wouldn't have been brave enough to consider selling any of it without them. She even submitted some pictures to a Wraptious art competition and, although she didn't win, she sold several pieces as cushions and cards which consolidated her hope that she really was producing work that people liked.

As lockdown was being eased she had begun to run out of space for her work and organised her first auction on August 20th for several of her items. She always started the bidding at a figure just above the cost of the materials and, if someone only offered that amount she would let them have the piece. It spiralled, however, and she ended up raising more than she ever expected, further proving to herself that it wasn't just her friends telling her she was good.

She has now moved her work to a business Facebook page - Sensimania Art - and is setting up a website for November. She started her second auction on October 2nd and is still offering pieces starting at the cost of the materials only. In the meantime she has completed a few commissions and I'm pretty sure she will be able to refer to herself as an artist, not "just a Mum", if anyone asks her what she does for a living today!

News from the Schools

Rev'd Isaac and Una, from the Link Foundation
<http://www.linkfoundation.co.uk/>

On Thursday 8th October, Juniper Hill School celebrated its Harvest Festival in a very modern way using a Zoom video conference session.

From the library Mrs Claire Garnett, the headmistress, introduced the Reverend Isaac Knight from Christ Church, who told the children how "water helps plants and fruits to be what they are supposed to be and in the same way, people in the community also need our help. Just like the good samaritan, be good to people and be kind."

The camera 'zoomed' into each classroom to find out what the children had been doing to show kindness. Tegan, described how she "made a fruit cake for her family, with pears that Daddy had picked". Christian, also did some cooking, making pancakes for his family's breakfast. Naomi cleared out her old toys and donated them to Barnardos and Elliot cheered up his grandma, who is 84 and lives in Liverpool, with a special phone call. The children were given monetary donations for carrying out their acts of kindness

Mrs Judith Timewell, a governor at Juniper Hill, had chosen two charities, The Link Foundation and The Variety Children's Charity, to benefit from the children's donation, with each receiving a cheque for an impressive £750.

Una Loughrey, Chairman of the Link Foundation Charity, explained how the money will be a great help to support children in the Marlow and Maidenhead area, who have difficult lives. "Some of these children don't have the right uniform or shoes. Sometimes essential items such as proper beds, or a cooker, need to be purchased."

Charlie, sponsored by the Variety Children's Charity, also accepted a cheque on their behalf, towards helping to buy equipment for children with disabilities.

Finally, the Reverend Isaac closed the Harvest Festival with a prayer, "Thank you for all this happy time of harvest and help us to be kind". A good message for all of us!

Flackwell Heath and Loudwater Day Centre

Flackwell Heath and Loudwater Age UK Day Centre has been closed since the end of March, but now plans are in place to re-open, hopefully by the middle of November.

Due to social distancing, unfortunately the numbers will have to be restricted, but we know that many of our clients are very keen to get back to their socialising and their home-cooked hot dinners. The staff are keen to re-open too and, along with the committee, are busy ensuring the building is safe and fully compliant with all Covid regulations and that all the relevant risk assessments have been made.

For many of our clients, the Day Centre is a life-line to the outside world – not all have families living locally, and although the staff have kept in regular contact with all of them, loneliness has been a big issue. So we are assured there will be celebrations on re-opening day!
